NEW USE FOR OLD WHEEL.

Wide Farm Gate Is Easily Moved by Its Aid.

If a wide farm gate is wanted, one that will open and close readily, and that without much outlay, you can have it if you are lucky enough to own an old wheel. The picture shows how it is done. A gate is built long enough to go between the posts set, and a solid post sawed off at one side two feet above the ground. The middle rib of the gate is left long enough to rest on this low post. It must be thick to take a pin or an iron bolt that is driven into the post. At the other end, explains Farm and Home, it is worked down to act as an axle for the wheel which carries the end of the gate around with the least exertion on the part of the operator.

A Gate Easy to Handle.

CRIST FOR THE FARMER.

The lender and the hay fork make the job shorter and easier than ever. How about that old leaky wooden tank? A cement tank will not dry out.

If the cellar needs ventilation, and it generally does, open the doors and windows at night instead of in the daytime. Have screens to keep out cats, rats, etc.

Stir the earth. Remember the agitation is death to all worms of the soil. Man never devised a more useful and valuable instrument than the hoe in all its forms.

The greater aid of all is your faithful team. See to it that your horses are not overworked by day and that they are properly fed and watered. They are human beings.

The Creamery. Stay right by the creamery, even though the supply of milk at your place runs short. The creamery needs your support the year round.

Humor of the Stage. The comedians supposed to be broadly humorous in our theatres are often made up as Irishmen with green whiskers, or Germans wearing on their heads the tall, pointed hats of the English aristocracy. In Germany, a frank imitation of our aristocrats of "Uncle Sam"—"I never forget."

NEW KIND OF SATIN.

Indication That Modified Empire Styles Are to Be Worn.

There is a new weave of satin just displayed which is extra wide. It has been woven for the use of the dress-makers who have orders for the modified empire skirt, which is not gored. This seems to indicate early in the season that the great designers intend to keep to this model for the fall styles. It will not be extreme, but probably carried out on the lovely slender lines that the later empire gowns show.

In this extra wide lustrous satin there is a new shade of golden brown called rum. There are also dark grays in the soft smoke and elephant shades, and it is whispered that these will make up the dominant gowns.

The new myrtle tones are also of this satin and the brilliant genda-nes blue.

The grays will be embroidered in heavy silk bullion and padded silk floss in three shades of gray. Here and there there will be a touch of silver fringe, and when the gowns are built for elaborate evening wear, to be worn with a hat, the gumples and long, wrinkled sleeves will be of the new coarse tulle embroidered with silver and rhinestones.

There seems to be a good deal of evidence coming from all sides that the dull grays are to take the place of vivid colors for elaborate gowns.

NEED OF ENOUGH SLEEP.

Perfect Health Can Not Be Attained or Kept Without It.

The amount of sleep one needs varies, like everything else, with the individual, but for the average person eight hours of sleep every night is just about right. When sleep has been missed it ought to be made up by a nap on the following day. Sleep is nature's restorer for all weakness and weariness and it renews and refreshes the new tissue which exercise builds.

With the proper amount of sleep wrinkles are kept at bay and the skin does not assume that yellowish, muddy look which is seen in many people who keep irregular hours, and the cheeks are inclined to be pink and rosy with that greatest of all rouges—good health.

A hard, flat bed, no pillow, and a perfectly relaxed position, with the feet down straight and the arms at the sides in some comfortable position, are the constituents for the most perfect rest. The room must be swept by an abundance of fresh air the night through.

MORNING BLOUSE.

When a zephyr would make this a useful blouse. The yoke is cut in tabs on the shoulders, front and back, a button is sewn in each point; the material is box-plaited below and set to a yoke. A slightly puffed sleeve is tucked to fit the arm and set into a cuff cut to correspond with yoke.

For Hair Locs. Many complain that their hair does not stand brushing, but comes out in two locks as soon as the brush is applied. This is probably due to an unhealthy condition of the scalp, and will require special treatment. Do not brush the hair very often, just enough to keep it smooth.

In order to have beautiful, luxuriant hair it will be well to follow the practical hints in the following paragraphs carefully.

Never expose the hair to the sun for any length of time, unless it is blonde and you wish to bleach it.

Excessive inhalation is the roughness, or "rattling" of the hair, by combing in the wrong way.

Gray hair requires even more care than brown, blonde or black ones. In order to bring out the delicate shade it not carefully washed and not immoderately clean, it will be streaky and inclined to show yellowish tints, which are far from pretty and not nearly so becoming and dignified as pure white or gray.

Stains on the Hands. Lemon juice is very good for removing stains from the hands, and if a little salt is added to this juice, it is still more efficacious.

Rubbing with a bit of orange or lemon skin removed the stains. Care must be taken to wipe the hands dry immediately.

Before peeling fish potatoes, the hands should be well dried, and should not be washed immediately after. By this slight precaution they will not be stained.

After peeling certain fruits and vegetables a little lemon juice removes all stains. The hands must dry to moisten in water.

CARE AND CLEANLINESS.

Are Important Elements in the Growing of Hogs.

Use disinfectants freely in the way of lime, etc. Keep feeding floors, troughs and sleeping pens clean. Tolerate no vermin, by the use of coal oil emulsion. Keep the hogs at all times supplied with fresh water. Before farrowing the sow should have a good feed of bran or short slops and after farrowing should be left quiet for some time and then watered with warm water if the weather is cold. Do not give her much feed for 24 hours, then give some bran with some shorts or ground oats mixed with a little water. A quart of this is enough. Continue to feed lightly for several days, increasing the amount until the pigs are two weeks old, by which time liberal care can be made of shorts and bran and roots. Grass is the best feed if it is available.

The critical period with a brood sow is the first two weeks after farrowing, says the Northwestern Agriculturist. Many pigs are lost in this time by feeding chilled drinks, which produce indigestion and fever. Keep the sows well hedged with clean, dry straw and give them all the sunlight possible. Damp nests are fatal to young litters. Exercise is absolutely necessary for young pigs in preventing thumps and kindred diseases.

Colds and scours caused by overfeeding the sows are causes of great losses in litters. Avoid this by not overfeeding the mothers for the first ten days after farrowing. During the first four weeks of the pig's life we must feed for bone and muscle, not for fat. Therefore do not feed too much corn.

The secret in producing cheap pork is to maintain a steady gain and a high degree of health and vigor from start to finish. To this end have a variety of feed and make all changes from feeding for growth to feeding for flesh gradually. The sleeping places for hogs should in all cases be clean and dry, well ventilated and well provided with bedding, frequently changed.

He MUST BE HUMANE.

The Man That Takes Care of the Livestock.

The owner of livestock should make sure that the man that is taking care of his stock is humane in his methods. Many a young horse is about ruined by being cared for by a man that is explosive in his temperament. Such a man can sometimes be made to control himself, if he is talked to enough by his employer.

The man that takes care of cows should be impressed with the fact that excitability affects the milk flow. Great injury is often done young cows by the man in charge of them losing his temper and trying to pound them into what he regards as proper habits.

The man that is not rightly balanced for this kind of work will soon be made manifest by the action of the animals themselves. They will show their fear of him and will avoid him as much as possible.

The man that has the confidence of the farm animals is the man that feels a liking for them. They will show no fear of him, and often they will come to him in the pasture. One may be sure that in such a case the man is the proper one to have charge of the stock.

Animals quickly recognize a friend, says the Farmers' Review, and as quickly understand the man that dislikes them. The employer of farm help should always be most favorable to the employment of a man that feels an attachment to animals. The animals will be more comfortable and more profitable.

STILE FOR STONE FENCE.

It Will Prove Especially Convenient for the Women Folks.

In some parts of the country where stone is plentiful stone walls are very prominent. It requires a very breezy man to get over a stone wall gracefully.

Manner of Construction.

It is well worth while to build a pair of stiles like the ones shown in the cut where it is necessary to get over one of these fences frequently in going from one part of the farm to another.

Give Weeds No Quarter. The corn is laid by, the hay is up, and the work of the season's work is past. The weeds, however, are still busy, and in a few weeks more many of them will have matured their seed. The cornfields and the pastures may be clean from weeds but look out for the add corners and barn yards, which oftentimes contain enough weeds to seed down the whole place. Get down the scythe on some off days in the next two weeks and get busy.

For Beginners. Beginners should not start in by trying to make several broad and shallow furrows. Better chance the plow is to make one or two narrow furrows of only one or two inches deep. When they find this pays better than the first method, they will not be long in learning to make a deep and true furrow.
